1. CONTEMPORARY CHINESE POETRY CALLS FOR A RECONSTRUCTION OF POETRY FORMATION

Over the past hundred years, China poetry experienced a number of academic controversies, up to today the academic circles again have to discuss the "second revolution" and "three reconstruction" of the Chinese new poetry—the reconstruction of the spirit of Chinese new poetry, the reconstruction of Chinese new poetry form and the reconstruction of the Chinese new poetry’s communication. As professor Lu Jin points out, the first revolution of Chinese new poetry is a kind of poetry blasting, the second revolution is the reconstruction of fixed form -- the reconstruction of Chinese poetry form, Chinese poetry aesthetic style reconstruction, the reconstruction of Chinese poetry’s communication. The crisis of modern Chinese new poetry in the past hundred years, mainly from the poetic style, is the crisis of free verse -- too free, which is also the biggest problem of contemporary Chinese poetry, such as the Lihua(梨花) style and the Yanggao(羊羔) style. Too westernized to be is the selling point of the pear flower style(Lihua style), but this is also a blind spot. Too philosophical as to make jokes out of crowds. No matter which nation’s poetry, metrical verse is always the mainstream, such as Anglo American sonnets, Japanese Waka(和歌) and Haiku(俳句), Vietnam’s 68 style and 7768 style, traditional Chinese poetry mainly in three words, four words, five words and seven words, six words a line were widely used in Fu, China poetry -- the metrical form, has been handed down from age to age. Only to the modern times in the process of assimilation from strong Western discourse, through the intellectual elite top-down "Enlightenment" and "indoctrination", free verse came up on the stage of history. Strictly speaking, the Chinese free verse in the history was only a tributary, this tributary mixed China and the West, today it is too westernized as to almost dry up its water source, it must once again plunges into the mainstream of Chinese poetry history, adjust the direction with the strong fluid, back to life. All the signs indicate that the modern metrical poetry is the main possibility of today’s Chinese new poetry.

In recent years, a variety of "new poetry" and "poets" came into being, poem of the "pear", "lamb", "black body" and "roaring style" and so on in the mass caused great repercussions. The evolution of poetry in modern society under the cultural transmission has attracted more and more attention. Relying on mobile phone platform, the new Chinese poetry -- Songzhu poetry (net pistol poetry) has established its name with communication, interaction, diffusion, it has attracted Chinese poetry circles and aesthetic circles with discussion.

Some traditional poetry scholars on the line belonged to the "aesthetic group" said that Songzhu poetry (net pistol poetry) was a kind of deconstruction of Chinese traditional culture and it should be stopped. Some scholars believed that it may have been controlled by the devil, with a world of monster, but more and more scholars agree that this Songzhu poetry (net pistol poetry) is inheritance and innovation of traditional culture. The South Korean sinologist, poet, Professor Xu Shixu (许世旭) pointed out: "China poet, must be based on China!" , "a person facing astray, only in retrospect the way, can he correctly explores the way to go, that is the future; Chinese itself has a long glorious poetic history and heritage, and even more so." 3

2. THE INNOVATIVE WAY OF PISTOL POEM (THIRTEEN LINE POETRY)

Reflecting on the path China modern poetry evolved, we think professor Lujin’s second revolution and three reconstructions are crucial and effective medicine for the contemporary Chinese poem, although it is radical. Chinese new poetry has evolved for 100 years. In the horizon of human history of poetry and Chinese literary history, it can be regarded as a variant of the mainstream of Chinese poetry in the process of strong assimilation by western culture and Western poetry in modern times. Now in the new century Chinese culture continues to strengthen its environmental discourse and its logic of evolution. This variant, carrying too much western concepts, too free, too intellectuals, even in the west, but also a dishonored "potted plant" or "false flowers", it is so far away from the main vein of its mother culture, that it suffered a double embarrassment at home and aboard.

For example, a famous contemporary poetry author Yu Jian(于坚) even named his poem "works 111", which is a complete abstract name like the western tune. Cheyangao (车延高) another famous poet who won “the fifth Lu Xun literature award” is regarded as an non-stop-press-enter-writing poet, his works were called "the lamb style"(羊羔体). In recent years the hot topic "pear flower style"(梨花体), is nothing but Chinese poem extremely westernized or Americanized. The representative poem of the "Pear flower style" reads as an ant

a bunch of ants

and perhaps more ants

This is but the Chinese version of American imagism poetry, which has been deeply influenced by Chinese classical poetry and the New Oriental Zen. Abstract enough, how can this fresh stuff exported to the west then imported back puzzle the mass forever, not to say it will integrate with the daily life. "Lamb style"(羊羔体) is nothing else but modern Chinese free verse which is further colloquial and slobbered, and further westernized.

In the history of the development of China poetry, "music following poem”(The Three Dynasty), “adopting poem with music” (Han Dynasty to the Six Dynasty), and “filling in lyrics in accordance with music” (after Sui and Tang Dynasty) together, constituted a development landscape. Later, poetry and music gradually separated.

This separation took the emergence of new poetry as the ultimate. However, new poetry left the music and brought great limitations to itself. So the recovery and development of the association of poem and music, is an important mission to reconstruct its mode of transmission.4

Pistol poem (thirteen line poetry) uses rhyme, tonal adjustment, antithesis, literary quotation, adhesion, tortuous, reversal, interjective, query, exaggeration, parallelism, jesting, collage, montage, ambiguity, etc. as its effective writing techniques, transferring of rhyme is also allowed. The main body form (with various different transformations) begins with double three, four, five, six, then seven Chinese characters, then double three, lastly single line of seven Chinese characters, the whole poem together has thirteen lines.

On the mobile phone screen 3344556677337 a total of 13 lines flow downward, like an old pine tree or mountain waterfalls--Momentum, beautiful and elegant in appearance, even children can remember the formation, writing with finger and soon delivering, as fast as a bullet shooting out. Like the meteor lightning, described as "below the brow and heart swiftly hits out all directions ", which certifies a truth that traditional Chinese poetry and modern high-tech WeChat platform once integrate together, then it becomes as powerful as possible.

Pistol poem (thirteen line poetry) uses rhyme and tonal adjustment, restores and develops the important link between poetry and music, this is the key point. The Chinese modern new poetry gradually deteriorated mainly because it’s difficult to recite. Modern Chinese poetry masterpieces like "zaibie kangqiao,"(Saying Goodbye to Cambridge again), “Gathering Lotus Seeds”, "Rain Lane ", "Stagnant Water ", "Nostalgic ", etc. succeeded in rhyme, the classic poetry review “No rhyme and no poetry ” is not a groundless statement.

In the premise of rhyme the Pistol poem (thirteen line poetry) decomposes then composes together the mainstream style of Chinese poetry in the thousands of years - -three words, four words, five words, six words, seven words poem, while allowing the use of various poetic techniques and the use of elegant themes, with visual and aural aesthetic forms, reflecting real life, adhering to the times, witnessing the various passions of human kinds, it expresses oneself as freely as possible.

Pistol poem (thirteen line poetry) is not identical to the formalistic poems both at home and abroad, such as stairs poem, pagodas poem, waves poem, palindrome poem, etc. The form contains Chinese wisdom, Chinese poetry rhythm and the active intervention of foreign culture, its cultural heritage, cultural transformation and cultural innovation, cannot be mentioned in the same breath with those wordplay.
